Many of the games most common to the United States have found their way here from other parts of the world. “Asian Games: The Art of Contest,” highlights the paramount importance of Asia as a source of many games, including chess, backgammon, parcheesi, playing cards and polo. This NEH on the Road exhibit will be on display in the Heritage Museum from October 21st through November 25th; five weeks only.

By exploring the evolution and social functions of games in Asia and their transmission to other regions, the exhibit illuminates important yet unfamiliar aspects of Asian cultures and their ongoing legacy.

The exhibition features four broad categories or types of games: chance; strategy; memory and matching; and power and dexterity. Card games, board games and ball games are all included. The exhibit is structured to suggest the impact of particular games and the cultural values of their players.

In conjunction with “Asian Games: The Art of Contest,” The Clatsop County Historical Society will present other public programs relating to the topic. The November TNT (Thursday Night Talks) presentation will feature a discussion and demonstration of the various games on Thursday, November 2nd at 7:00 p.m. Family Game Day, featuring games that originated in Asia including a giant size chess game will be held on Saturday, November 11, from 1 to 4 p.m.

“Asian Games: The Art of the Contest” has been made possible through NEH on the Road, a special initiative of the National Endowment for the Humanities. It is presented by ExhibitsUSA, a national program of Mid-America Arts Alliance, and was organized by The Asia Society, New York, New York.

Peter Iredale himself (Thomas Peter Iredale, descendant of Peter Iredale) will be present at the Heritage Museum on Thursday, October 26th at 7:00 p.m. for a free discussion about the Iredale family and seafaring history.

After two successful years and the continued support by our sponsor, Astoria Granite Works, the Talking Tombstones event lives again. This year’s sequel, Talking Tombstones III, Carved In Stone, will appear in the Greenwood Cemetery on Sunday, October 29th starting at 1:00 p.m. until dusk. Visitor’s should plan to arrive no later than 4:00 p.m. as the deceased begin to fade from view as the darkness of night draws near.

Ten former citizens are expected to return from the great beyond for a grave side chat with any and all willing to visit their tombstone. Hear from one of Astoria’s earliest and most respected founders, be serenaded by the melodious voice of a dusky damsel from Olney, or be shocked by the devilish end of a devout man.

Greenwood Cemetery can be found approximately three miles south of Astoria off Highway 202. Just follow the special event signs.

Photos Needed — Dig out your scrapbooks

What’s probably the most photographed landmark in Clatsop County? It’s not the Astoria Bridge or Haystack Rock.

It’s the Peter Iredale, the skeletal shipwreck that’s been mired in the beach at Fort Stevens for 100 years, come this Oct. 25th.

The Clatsop County Historical Society is commemorating the century mark with a photo display featuring the Iredale from 1906 through the present. We are asking members to dig out their family scrapbooks and bring any and all photos of the Peter Iredale to the Heritage Museum, where staff will scan the photos while you wait.

Don’t think, ‘Oh, I just have snapshots,’ because snapshots are what we need. Many of you have taken visiting family to Fort Stevens and snapped a picture of Grandma or cousin Ted at the Peter Iredale. We want as many shots of the shipwreck as possible, no matter what vintage or quality. After all, it’s 100 years of the memories created while visiting the shipwreck that deserve commemorating. Soon, that will be all that is left.

The photos we currently have went on display at the Heritage Museum Oct. 1, and more shots will be added as they come in.
